VOL. II, NO. 1

BIMONTHLY BULLETIN JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1962

It is with deep regret that we announce that our able Secretary-Treasurer is hospitalized and is very seriously ill. Mrs. Lucy A. Kelly entered the hospital approximately January 20th and has undergone several operations and is expected to remain in the hospital probably six weeks. We wish Lucy and her husband, John Kelly, all the best of luck and hope that she has a speedy and rapid recovery.

Since Lucy has been hospitalized, the correspondence of the Society and membership cards have come to a standstill. Before entering the hospital, Lucy worked diligently for many days in an effort to catch up as much as possible. However, since it will undoubtedly be many months before Lucy can retain her old vitality, her husband has asked to have her relieved of the Secretary-Treasurer's duties. As a temporary measure only, the President has requested his wife, Nancy Fuld, to substitute as an acting Secretary-Treasurer for several weeks until the Board of Governors of the Token and Medal Society can appoint a new Secretary-Treasurer. As this bulletin is being written, John Delly is forwarding all of Lucy's mail, membership records, dues receipts and dues cards to Baltimore so that the material can be brought up to date and we are making every effort to keep our members informed.

Please excuse any of the delay in answering correspondence addressed to Lucy as we are doing our best to catch up as rapidly as possible.

Before the next bulletin is published in March, a new Secretary-Treasurer will be appointed by the Board of Governors and we hope this will possibly be able to fill the large gap left in the organization by the illness of Lucy Kelly.

It is with great pleasure that the appointment of an Associate Editor for the Journal of the Token and Medal Society is announced; namely, Russell Rulau, formerly of San Diego, California, and now in the process of being restationed with the army in New Mexico. Russ is well known to members of the Society for his great efforts in furthering the Society both here and the Southern California Group. We feel that it is only fair that Russ's great contributions should be awarded in this manner and he has graciously accepted this appointment as Associate Editor. Since Russ, at present, does not have a new mailing address in New Mexico, we are not publishing it herewith, but mail can probably still reach him through his old address at 4007 Castia Way, San Diego, California. As soon as his new address is available in New Mexico, we will publish this in the bulletin. At the same time for the coming year, the following Assistant Editors of the Journal for the Token and Medal Society will be as follows: Nathan Egli of Chicago, Illinois, Ralph Mitchell of Fullerton, California, Eric P. Newman of St. Louis, Mo., E. Ward Russell of Silver Springs, Maryland, and Arlie Slabaugh of Chicago, Illinois. We welcome Arlie as a new Assistant Editor of the Journal and look forward to many fine contributions from him as he is well known for his scholarly works in numismatics.

In the last issue of the Journal, we published at the very end of the membership list, a very late receipt that just made the printers before the Bulletin was printed - that is the results of the nationwide election in regard to the name of the Society. If you refer to Page 85 of our December bulletin, you will note that the new name of our Society TOKEN AND MEDAL SOCIETY or TAMS. This name was elected by the membership with almost fifty percent of the members voting and this name was elected by almost two-to-one over the second highest vote for The American Exonumist Association. We wish to report that all members seem pleased by the out-come of this election and even though many people supported the alternate name, they have all agreed to abide by the majority vote.

In the last issue of the Journal in December, we published a provisional constitution for the Society and since there's been so little time for members to express their comments on the contents of this constitution, we are not enclosing a ballot with this issue for the final adoption of the constitution. We urge anyone who has comments on the constitution, especially if they think there should be any changes in any manner, please to communicate with the President of the Society or with one of the members of the Board of Governors. All correspondence can be forwarded through P. O. Box 6047, Baltimore 31, Maryland. As soon as the constitution is formally adopted, formal incorporation papers for the Society will be prepared and the Society will be incorporated as a non-profit organization in Washington, D. C.

We wish to point out that the alphabetical list of members published in the December bulletin undoubtedly has many errors. The only way these errors can be corrected is by the members themselves pointing out the errors to us. We are attaching to the end of the section of comments herewith some changes and additions, but the inclusion of new members who have applied to the Society since January 1st will not appear in this issue, since the records of the Society are in transit from McKeesport. Please, if there are errors in your membership number or the spelling of your name or the address, notify the Editor promptly so these corrections can be made. We do expect to prepare addressograph plates to handle the mailing list of the Society in the very near future and are anxious to bring the list to as complete a state as possible.

The Editor wishes to point out that in this issue a number of free advertisements of members of the Society are included, but that the number of these ads that are being requested is becoming larger all the time. We respectfully request the members to limit their ads to three to four lines typed as longer ads cannot be inserted in the Journal at this time. We are considering the possibility of paid advertisements, but no decision by the Board of Governors has been reached at present. Please remember that only members of the Token and Medal Society can insert the free advertisement and when space becomes more limited, as it rapidly appears to be at present, members will not be allowed to insert the same ad month after month.

As mentioned in one of the earlier bulletins of the journal, it was suggested by the members at Atlanta that a collection of contemporary medals and tokens of the United States be formed by the Society. It is the opinion that this collection should be donated on a permanent basis to the National Coin Collection at the Smithsonian Institution and this the Smithsonian Institution will become the official repository of contemporary medals and tokens from the Token and Medal Society's collection. Dr. V. Clain-Steffanelli, Curator of Numismatics at the Smithsonian, is currently discussing with the officers of the Association the exact mechanism for maintaining a collection; but in the meanwhile, if members desire to make donations of contemporary pieces to the Society's collection, they can be forwarded either directly to the Curator of the Numismatics at the Smithsonian, Dr. Steffanelli, Washington 25, D. C. or to the Editor of the Journal who will forward them to the Smithsonian.

We have discussed previously the possibility of setting up a Society Library in the field of tokens and medals and our Curator-Historian, Mr. Clifford Mischler, P. O. Box 187, Vandalia, Michigan, is serving as the first Librarian for the Society. If any members have books on the field of medals or tokens that they wish to donate to the Society Library, please forward them to Mr. Mischler. As soon as a number of these items are in hand, a list of the new items in the Library will be published. Several donations have been made from Mr. Mischler himself, as well as a number of more current articles by other people which have been donated to the collection.

In this issue, we are starting a serial article on Parking Meter Tokens, compiled by Mr. Duane Feisel of Turtlecreek, Pennsylvania. Duane has been working on the field of Parking Meter tokens for a number of years and this list is a culmination of his efforts along with a number of other Transportation collectors; mainly Ralph Freiberg of San Francisco, John Coffee of Boston, and the Fulds of Baltimore. This list is only a preliminary list, but in an effort to try to ferret out more parking meter tokens in various areas of the country, we are beginning to publish this list in its possibly incomplete form at present. There are over a hundred and fifty tokens listed herewith, but we are sure that many other parking tokens are in use in various parts of the country, especially in privately operated garages and parking lots. If anyone knows of any parking tokens unlisted in the following article, please communicate descriptions of them to the Editor and he will forward these descriptions to Mr. Feisel. The Editor took the liberty of adding a number of new items to this list as supplied manuscript formed by Mr. Feisel in an effort to start publishing a list as rapidly as possible. The first four pages are included herewith in this bulletin. We hope in one of the coming bulletins to illustrate by pictures a number of these parking tokens so that the various kinds that are in current use can be seen. There are three or four major classes of tokens; notably the ones issued by the Duncan Parking Meter Corporation of Chicago, which are slightly larger than a nickel, the similar sized tokens - also twenty-three millimeter in size, issued by Western Industries of Chicago - and the Parcoa tokens of the Parking Corporation of America which are twenty-five millimeters in size. These are the three basic sizes of tokens although there are a number of other sizes in use. A number of these operate automatic parking gates, as well as parking meters. A copy of this list also appeared in the Feb. 23 issue of Coin World.

Duane H. Feisel

Parking tokens are a relatively recent arrival on the numismatic scene. Most of the known parking tokens have been put in use within the past decade although information is lacking for a number of tokens. An ever expanding usage of parking tokens in various applications continually provides many new pieces which lend considerable interest to the field. As a result of the former lack of recognition or widespread interest in this field of token collecting, there are undoubtedly a number of parking tokens which await discovery and publication.

Parking tokens are manufactured in a variety of sizes, shapes, materials, and designs. Most parking tokens are round, are made of brass or bronze, and are of a size just greater than a nickel or a quarter. There is a wide assortment of token designs although there are several standard designs.

The applications for parking tokens fall into several categories with many variations within a given category. Municipal governments make extensive use of parking tokens, mostly in conjunction with local merchant organizations. The essential features of this plan are that the tokens are purchased by the local merchants who distribute them free of charge to customers which, in essence, provides free parking. This plan enables the merchant located in a metropolitan area to compete more favorably with merchants located in the suburban shopping centers which invariably provide wide expanses of parking area. This application for parking tokens is expanding rapidly as more and more municipalities recognize or are faced with the problem and attempt to solve it in this manner. One of the problems connected with this application (some may consider this problem to actually be an advantage) is that the parking fee for the customer is not being paid for his present visit, but for a future visit. The City of Cleveland, Ohio, has a logical variation of this usage which eliminates this problem. There, the shopper can enter a municipal parking lot free of charge, but his exit is controlled by a parking gate which can be actuated by coins or by a parking token obtained free from a merchant.

The system of entering free and token or payment for exit from a gate controlled parking lot is very popular with merchants who own parking lots for use of their customers. In this application, the customer can enter the parking lot free of charge, but, on exit, must supply a parking token obtainable only from the owner of the lot or insert a cash fee. When the cash fee is set sufficiently high, this plan effectively provides parking only for the customers of the parking lot owner. This plan appears to be particularly favored by banking institutions. A similar system is widely used by hospitals and fraternal or social organizations.

Another system involving the use of parking gates to control parking is payment or token for entrance with free exit from the lot. In some cases entrance is by parking token only, and use of the parking lot can be controlled closely by the distribution of tokens. This system is popular with firms providing employee parking areas.

Still another use for parking tokens involves those engaged in the business of providing parking to the public in privately owned parking lots. In such applications, tokens have been issued for use in parking gates, parking meters, or for presentation to the parking lot attendant. The distribution of the tokens to the public may be by the operator of the parking lot directly, by merchants who purchase the tokens from the lot operator for dispensation to their customers, or by a combination of these methods. Such usage for parking tokens is not presently great, but has future potential as the advantages of such a plan are more widely recognized.

There are other systems for use of parking tokens, but those described cover most of the present situations.

The system of describing the tokens in the catalog listing is essentially that as used by vecturists for classifying transportation tokens. A complete description of the classification system is given in "Atwood's Catalogue of United States and Canadian Transportation Tokens", published by the American Vecturist Association, P. O. Box 1204, Boston 4, Massachusetts. Plans are being made to include a section for parking tokens in future editions of this important work. The system is useful because it is relatively simple, provides a complete description of the token, and has great flexibility.

It is hoped that this listing will not only stimulate interest in this field of token collecting, but will also serve to turn up new information on parking tokens. The author welcomes correspondence and information on parking tokens, and may be reached at P. O. Box 83, Turtle Creek, Pennsylvania.

Information on the tokens described in the listing has been obtained from many sources, and I am indebted to the many organizations and individuals who have cooperated in this undertaking. Among those to whom I am most appreciative for supplying information are W. W. Woodside, who also aroused my initial interest in parking tokens, Ralph Freiberg, George Fuld, Roland Atwood, Dan DiMichael, Harold Ford, Larry Freeman, John Clymer, Max Schwartz, Leonard Paul, Philip Easterly, John Nicolosi, the James H. Matthews Company, Meyer Wenthe, Inc., Western Industries, Inc., and many other individuals and organizations too numerous to mention.

EXPLANATION OF CATALOGING SYSTEM

The system employed here in listing parking tokens is essentially that used in "Atwood's Catalogue of United States and Canadian Transportation Tokens" with but a few minor modifications. The reader should refer to this reference for a detailed description of the system.

The tokens are first listed by state. The next classification is by city; each city within a state is assigned a code number between 0 and 999. To eliminate, as far as possible, any confusion between designations of transportation tokens and parking tokens, the city code numbers for parking tokens have been assigned corresponding numbers from 3000 to 3999.

Under the name of the city, the obverse description of the token is given first in capital letters. The reverse description follows immediately below and slightly indented, in lower case letters. All tokens with the same obverse inscription are grouped together. A description of the physical attributes of the token is given by the code designations in the columns to the left of the reverse inscription. The first column is a letter designating a particular token. The second column describes whether or not a token is still in use; if the column is blank, the token is still in use, while if the letter "o" appears, it indicates the token is obsolete. The third column carries a code describing the material of which the token is made; in this listing the following material codes have been used:

A = aluminum
B = brass
Bz = bronze
SS = stainless steel
WM = white metal

Other material designations are given in "Atwood's Catalogue." The diameter of the token in the nearest whole millimeter is given in the fourth column unless the token is odd-shaped, and then a description of the shape is given, and further details of size are given in parentheses following the reverse inscription. In the fifth column is listed the cut-out device or design in the center of the token; the following symbols have been used in this listing:

Ch = center hole
Pc = pierced
Sd = solid
Sh = shamrock
St = star

A more complete listing of additional symbols is given in the Atwood Catalogue.

Whenever the device symbol is followed by "-sc," this denotes the design is "stencil-cut" (design removed) rather than hanging in the center.

The valuation of the token is provided at the extreme right of the reverse inscription.

Words in parentheses often follow the obverse or reverse inscriptions, or may take the place of these inscriptions. Such notations are used to describe the token more fully, or to provide additional information concerning the token. For example, a picture appearing on the token is described in parentheses, the dimensions of an odd-shaped token are given, if minor die varieties of a token are known this is indicated by the abbreviation (Vars.), and the plating, if any, is given in parentheses.

With this listing at hand then, a token simply called, for example, Pa 3765 B, is sufficient to obtain a complete description of the token.
